1.2 Construct the Weighted Graph based on Similar Genres where $|SIM_GENRES| > n$

Where n is the number of edges / connections for a genre.

1.2.1 Functions

[3]:
```python
'''
df: Dataframe
support: The minimum number of connections a node must have to be incorporated →into the set of genres

Useful for checking the genres that have over <support> connections.
def set_genre(df, support: int = -1):
    set_genres = set()
    for idx, row in df.iterrows():
        connections = ast.literal_eval(row['SIM_GENRES'])

        # Only add the (node,edges) into the set if the number of connections →is greater than the support
        if len(connections) > support:
            set_genres.add(row['GENRE'])
            set_genres.update(connections) return (support, set_genres)

'''
df: Dataframe
support: The minimum number of connections a node must have to be incorporated →into the graph
n: The number of rows to traverse on the Dataframe (only useful for testing)
'''
def generate_G(df, support: int = -1, n: int = 5000):
    G = nx.Graph()
    for idx, row in df.iterrows():
        connections = ast.literal_eval(row['SIM_GENRES'])
        weights = ast.literal_eval(row['SIM_WEIGHTS'])

        # Only add the (node,edges) if the number of connections is greater →than the support
        if len(connections) > support:
            G.add_node(row['GENRE']) edges = [(row['GENRE'], connections[i], int(weights[i])) for i in →range(len(connections))]
            G.add_weighted_edges_from(edges)

            # Useful if you only need a small sample (for testing mainly)
            if idx == n:

```
            break return G

def plot_network(G, set_genres):
    plt.rcParams['figure.dpi'] = 300

    fig, ax = plt.subplots(1, figsize = (16,9))

    pos = nx.spring_layout(G) nx.draw_networkx_nodes(G, pos, nodelist = list(set_genres), node_size = 20,␣ ax.axis('off')

    plt.show()
fig.savefig('./images/spring_layout_subgenres.pdf', bbox_inches='tight')
```

1.2.2 What can various support sizes tell us about the everynoise network?

[4]: subgenre_sets = Parallel(n_jobs = -3, verbose = 2, batch_size =␣
 ↪'auto')(delayed(set_genre)(df_allG, i) for i in np.arange(76))

[Parallel(n_jobs=-3)]: Using backend LokyBackend with 10 concurrent workers.
[Parallel(n_jobs=-3)]: Done   21 tasks      | elapsed:    5.3s
[Parallel(n_jobs=-3)]: Done   76 out of   76 | elapsed:   12.8s finished

[5]: num_connections, sub_sets = zip(*sorted(subgenre_sets, key = lambda s: s[0])) subgenre_lengths = np.array(list(map(len, sub_sets)))
```

[15]: plt.rcParams['figure.dpi'] = 300
      fig1, ax1 = plt.subplots(1, figsize = (10,6))
      ax1.plot(num_connections, subgenre_lengths / subgenre_lengths[0], '-o') ax1.set_xlabel(r'Minimum Degree $s$') ax1.set_ylabel(r'Ratio of Nodes $n$ with Degree $>s$') ax1.set_title(r'Minimum Degree $s$ vs. Ratio of Nodes with Degree $>s$') ax1.grid(False)
      plt.show()
      fig1.savefig('./images/subgenre_connections', bbox_inches='tight')

Minimum Degree s vs. Ratio of Nodes with Degree $> s$
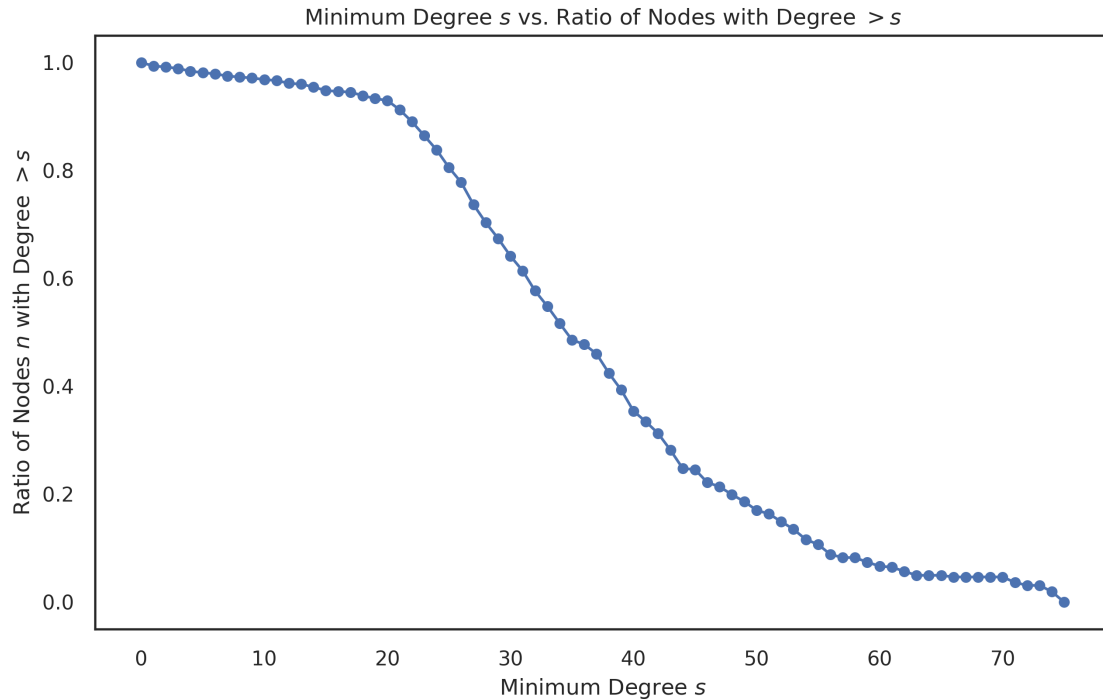

From the plot, we can see that as the degree s increases, and of course the ratio of nodes with degree $d > s$ decreases monotonically. The largest change in the ratio of nodes is from about $s = 20$ to $s = 45$. There are genres that have no similar genres on everynoise, so there needs to be a way to account for these and not have them by their lonesome. We can use the genres it's most opposite to and make connections between that genre, and others who share similar OPP_GENRES. There are also other 'island' communities that perhaps could be connected to the main graph with that strategy as well.

[7]: G1 = generate_G(df_allG, 2) partition = community.best_partition(G1)
     # size = float(len(set(partition.values())))
     # pos = nx.spring_layout(G1,k=1,iterations=20)

     # count = 0
     # for com in set(partition.values()):
     #     count = count + 1
     #     list_nodes = [nodes for nodes in partition.keys() if partition[nodes] ==␣ ↪com]
     #     nx.draw_networkx_nodes(G1, pos, list_nodes, node_size = 20, node_color =␣ ↪str(count / size))
     #     nx.draw_networkx_edges(G1, pos, edge_color = str(count / size), alpha=0.5)
     # plt.show()
     # # plot_network(G1, sub_sets[2])

3 Feature Description

According to the Spotify Web API (This is just for reference and describes the meaning of the audio features used by spotify to describe tracks)

3.1 Danceability

"Danceability describes how suitable a track is for dancing based on a combination of musical elements including tempo, rhythm stability, beat strength, and overall regularity. A value of 0.0 is least danceable and 1.0 is most danceable."

3.2 Speechiness

"Speechiness detects the presence of spoken words in a track. The more exclusively speech-like the recording (e.g. talk show, audio book, poetry), the closer to 1.0 the attribute value. Values above 0.66 describe tracks that are probably made entirely of spoken words. Values between 0.33 and 0.66 describe tracks that may contain both music and speech, either in sections or layered, including such cases as rap music. Values below 0.33 most likely represent music and other non-speech-like tracks."

3.3 Energy

"Energy is a measure from 0.0 to 1.0 and represents a perceptual measure of intensity and activity. Typically, energetic tracks feel fast, loud, and noisy. For example, death metal has high energy, while a Bach prelude scores low on the scale. Perceptual features contributing to this attribute include dynamic range, perceived loudness, timbre, onset rate, and general entropy."

3.4 Instrumentalness

"Predicts whether a track contains no vocals. "Ooh" and "aah" sounds are treated as instrumental in this context. Rap or spoken word tracks are clearly "vocal". The closer the instrumentalness value is to 1.0, the greater likelihood the track contains no vocal content. Values above 0.5 are intended to represent instrumental tracks, but confidence is higher as the value approaches 1.0."

3.5 Key

"The key the track is in. Integers map to pitches using standard Pitch Class notation . E.g. 0 = C, 1 = C /D , 2 = D, and so on."

3.6 Liveness

"Detects the presence of an audience in the recording. Higher liveness values represent an increased probability that the track was performed live. A value above 0.8 provides strong likelihood that the track is live."

3.7 Loudness

"The overall loudness of a track in decibels (dB). Loudness values are averaged across the entire track and are useful for comparing relative loudness of tracks. Loudness is the quality of a sound that is the primary psychological correlate of physical strength (amplitude). Values typical range between -60 and 0 db."

3.8 Mode

"Mode indicates the modality (major or minor) of a track, the type of scale from which its melodic content is derived. Major is represented by 1 and minor is 0."

3.9 Tempo

The overall estimated tempo of a track in beats per minute (BPM). In musical terminology, tempo is the speed or pace of a given piece and derives directly from the average beat duration.

3.10 Time Signature

"An estimated overall time signature of a track. The time signature (meter) is a notational convention to specify how many beats are in each bar (or measure)."

3.11 Valence

"A measure from 0.0 to 1.0 describing the musical positiveness conveyed by a track. Tracks with high valence sound more positive (e.g. happy, cheerful, euphoric), while tracks with low valence sound more negative (e.g. sad, depressed, angry)."

4 Feature Selection

It would appear looking at the distributions of the playlist tracks average values that a few features may be less meaningful. Looking at the above, we may find it useful to throw out time-signature, instrumentalness, speechiness, liveness, and mode, because they aren't distributed in what looks like anything meaningful.

We are planning to perform PCA or SVD to determine which features to throw out instead of solely basing it on the distributions. We will combine knowledge of the feature distribution and knowledge gained from performing PCA and SVD to decide if any features are not super useful because clustering is easier to understand with fewer features.

5 Feature Correlation

The above is a heatmap showing feature by feature correlation.

The highest positive correlation is between energy and loudness which makes intuitive sense. A song with more loudness may be a good indicator of high energy, so we may not need to consider both of these features. Also, energy is highly correlated with tempo, but since tempo and loudness aren't correlated as highly removing energy from consideration may be best.

The correlation between danceability and valence means that more danceable songs tend to have a more positive mood and less danceable songs have a sadder mood. I get it, I don't like to dance while I cry either!

The most highly negatively correlated features are energy and acousticness. This is interesting, not something I would have guessed as I don't tend to necessarily associate accoustic music inherently with low energy but it seems that something in how they measure and calculate both of these features may be similar.

Finally, we can see that acousticness may mean tracks are quiter.

6 Work still to be done

- GMM for playlist feature data
- PCA and SVD, remove some features from playlist features
- SpringRank Hamiltonian on school genres to find most popular genres across colleges in US
- compare clustering to community detection algorithms
- lots of analysis
- possibly take subsets of most commonly known/popular genres to get more intuitive understanding of what the algorithms are doing

7 Preliminary Analysis

We loaded the data from the website everynoise and we have analyzed the how using the degree as a support will give us various subsets of the network at hand. This is good for getting a look at the degree distribution of the network. In addition to this we also gathered the intrinsic song / playlist data via the Spotify API, and calculated average values for each subgenre for all 12 features. Then we constructed histograms for the distribution of frequencies for various values of the features. Next we found used the correlation map to find features that are highly correlated with each other. Afterwords we plotted K-Means with 5 clusters (arbitrary decision) against several combinations of 2 various features. Next we plotted point clouds with respect to the three axes, so we have $\binom{12}{3}$ plots (Obviously we are not going to use all of these). We also gathered data for the top genres across 675 universities in the United States, and attempted to incorporate spring rank on them.

Next steps include using Gaussian Mixture Models on playlist data to also find potential communities. In addition to this PCA or some other form of dimensionality reduction (SVD) will be useful to compress all of these subgenres into their most significant directions in order to more easily visualize the latent structure that is there. For the top genres across the US, we need to finish up Spring Rank Hamiltonian in order to find the top 100 genres across U.S. Schools. With these top 100 genres we can then run K-Means (or GMM) to find communities, and also construct graphs where the only nodes are those top 100 genres.
